"delivers clear advice on complex issues across the whole project"

Legal 500, 2015

"He cuts through the legal risk and distils real commercial solutions"

Chambers UK 2014

Mark is a widely recognised major project and outsourcing lawyer, commended for his high level of expertise and exceptional client service.

Mark is a partner in our Commercial Group, with over 18 years' experience of major commercial transactions. He is head of the firm's International Outsourcing Practice and specialises in advising on major procurement, outsourcing and technology projects, particularly in the aerospace, defence and security sectors.

Mark has extensive experience of advising on a wide range of technology and communications-related issues and has been involved in the firm's cyber security group since its inception.

As well as advising customer-side organisations on cyber and IT security issues in the context of technology and BPO outsourcing projects across a number of industry sectors, Mark is also acts for a number of suppliers of cyber-related products and services. His recent work in this area includes advising an international aerospace and defence contractor on two major bids to supply cyber-related services to part of the UK government and supporting another supplier on a range of bids, sub-contracts and customer contracts in both the public and private sectors.

Mark speaks regularly at industry events on outsourcing and commercial technology issues and is recognised as a 'Leading Individual' in the fields of outsourcing and major commercial contracts in the latest editions of the Chambers Guide to the UK Legal Profession and the Legal 500 respectively.
